Today's meetin reminded me that trust is rebuilt through consistent behavior over time. Words and intentions are important, but they must be supported by reliable actions. I am committed to following every requirement placed upon me, maintaining accurate documentation, attending recommended meetings, and communicating honestly with the appropriate professionals. I understand that rehabilitation is an ongoing process rather than a single accomplishment. Each responsible decision gives me an opportunity to demonstrate that I am learning, changing, and taking my professional obligations seriously.
